

Copyright & Trademark

Colkie loves Artists of all types and has great admiration and appreciation for their creative contributions to the world. Colkie respects the intellectual property rights granted to creative works and seeks to promote such respect by others, especially our Artists.

Colkie's policy is to terminate, in appropriate circumstances, subscribers and account holders who are repeat infringers. We rely on Artists to fund, post or link only to their own original creations on our platform and to notify us when creations are being misused, stolen or otherwise abused.

Intellectual property is a complex and nuanced area of law and there are legal risks involved both in sending notifications and counter-notifications. If you are not already familiar with intellectual property law, we recommend consulting with an attorney for specific advice before bringing any notifications or counter-notifications on Colkie.

Copyright

The Digital Millennium Copyright Act (DMCA) provides a notice and takedown framework for potential copyright infringements. This framework allows copyright owners to bring a notification of claimed infringement for any potentially infringing works that may be hosted or located on Colkie. Colkie acts expeditiously to remove such works.

If a Colkie Artist has potentially misused your copyrighted work, please submit a notification of claimed infringement by following these instructions.

If you have received a notification of claimed infringement on your Colkie page, you have the option of removing the work or bringing a counter-notification by following these instructions. All notifications of claimed infringement can be emailed to Colkie's designated DMCA agent at: info@colkie.com

Trademark

A trademark is a brand name, slogan, or logo that serves to identify a person or company's goods or services. For example: You're now using the Colkie® platform. The Colkie® trademark helps distinguish this website from other online platforms.

If you are concerned that someone may be using your trademark in a way that is likely to confuse or mislead the public, please contact us at info@colkie.com. We will review your claim and take whatever action we deem appropriate, including but not limited to removal of the violative mark from Colkie.
